The Center for Public History and Digital Humanities at Cleveland State University and the Baker-Nord Center for the Humanities, Kelvin Smith Library, and the College of Arts and Sciences at Case Western Reserve University are pleased to invite you to Digital Humanities Connections – a conversation about the future of digital humanities.

May 6th, 2011

1200 – 4:30pm
Clapp Room, Kelvin Smith Library, 11055 Euclid Avenue

4:30 pm Happy Hour
The Jolly Scholar
Thwing Center, 1111 Euclid Avenue

We are very pleased to welcome Tom Scheinfeldt and Sharon Leon from the Center for History and New Media (CHNM) at George Mason University, who will be joining us to give a talk entitled "Agility and Openness: Digital Public History". This will be followed by Lightning Talks and open discussion sessions. Lunch and post-event appetizers will be provided.

The event is free, but registration is required. For more information and to register visit http://dhconnections.clevelandhistory.org/.

Sharon Leon is the Director of Public Projects at the Center for History and New Media and Associate Professor in the History and Art History Department. At CHNM, Leon oversees collaborations with library, museum, and archive partners from around the country. She manages the Center's digital exhibit and archiving projects, as well as research and tool development for public history.

Tom Scheinfeldt is Managing Director of the Center for History and New Media and Research Assistant Professor of History in the Department of History and Art History at George Mason University. In addition to managing general operations at the Center for History and New Media, Tom directs several of its online history projects, including Omeka, the September 11 Digital Archive, the Hurricane Digital Memory Bank, the Papers of the War Department, 1784–1800, and Gulag: Many Days. Many Lives.